

Welcome to =Epic Creations=

Written by Administrator

Thursday, 11 November 2010 05:41 - Last Updated Saturday, 14 March 2020 14:46

Welcome to =Epic Creations=

To Anyone that has received spam from this domain, we sincerely apologize and have taken action to prevent it from happening again. Turns out one of the email accounts was compromised and was used to send out several spam emails. We have disabled the account and will investigate further to try and find out what happened. The server itself has not been breached.

I am currently working hard on getting a new website built, to replace this Joomla! website which is much slower than what I am making.

The new website will have a different layout and a better template, and will be able to give control of in-world products from the website. It will also replace the current vendor and update system I have setup currently, it will run much faster and be more efficient, and hopefully the in-world vendors and update script will not error as much.

Thanks for checking it out!.

Update 2/28/2012:

We now have a support webpage, including a Knowledge base where We'll be moving the web's instructions there as well as on the forums.

Click here for support webpage

Â

New update 3/13/2011

We now have forums! If you have any issue or you just want to chat, come to our forums! The link is on the side.